BROWN FIRED AT MEN

Came to City in Large Touring
Car, Made Haul

One of the most daring hold-ups ever attempted in Glendale was made Saturday night at 6 o'clock when Sebastian's Grocery at the corner of Glendale avenue and Wilson was robbed of more than $300 by four unmasked bandits. Special Officer Brown entered the store through a rear door at the time of the robbery and fired at the bandits but missed them.

The four men were a part of a gang who arrived in town in two automobiles. One car was parked in an alley near Glendale and Wilson avenue and the other car was parked on California street between Wilson avenue and Howard streets. Four of the men entered the store and one walked to the rear. The party pulled their revolvers and, covering clerks and customers, ordered them to throw up their hands. A boy in the store thought that the hold-up men were motion picture actors at first and started to laugh refusing to put up his hands. One of the employees of the store convinced the boy that it was a real bona fide robbery and advised him to obey orders.

While three of the bandits kept the clerks and customers covered, the fourth rifled the cash register, securing between three and four hundred dollars. Checks amounting to almost $500 were not molested. Special Officer Brown entered the store from the rear while the cash register was being emptied and fired at the bandit. The bandits ran to the street and exchanged shots with Brown. No one was hit in the interchange of shots. Police officers were notified and hurried to the scene of the robbery but the bandits had escaped in their machines. Chief of Police Martin, Officer Herda and Special Officers Walker and Wyman pursued them to Montrose but lost the trail.

According to J. W. Saunders, who lives at 227 North Howard street, he saw five men drive up to the intersection of California street and park a large touring car. Four men left the car and walked toward Glendale avenue. Mr. Saunders says that he talked to the man remaining in the car for a minute and then walked away. He did not see the other men return and did not hear the shots fired. He is slightly deaf.

A report from Los Angeles says that a band of men answering the description of the bandits who robbed the Sebastian grocery held up and robbed an oil station in that city about an hour after the robbery here. Another report from Pasadena says that a gang thought to be the same one responsible for the robberies in Glendale and Los Angeles held up and robbed the box office of the Raymond theater in Pasadena the same night. Police all over the county were notified of the robberies and are searching for the men.

HUNGRY ROBBERS PASSED UP MONEY

Take Groceries But Do Not Touch Cash Register in Local Store Sunday

Burglars who wanted food worse than money entered the store of Mrs. Gatto at Verdugo road and Colorado Sunday and escaped with a quantity of groceries. The cash register was not touched. The robbery was reported to the police by Fred Dixon who lives in the neighborhood of the store. The robbers escaped with two large cans of lard, three cans of coffee, one half sack of sugar, two dozen cans of milk, several loaves of bread, a quantity of cigarettes and a jar of honey.

MRS. J. W. WALTON IS AWARDED FORD CAR

So great was the interest in the awarding of the Ford automobile at the American Legion show Saturday night that the committee in charge did not wait until 11 p. m., as the program announced. The award went to Mrs. J. W. Walton, a member of the Tuesday Afternoon club who bought a ticket in the Queen contest from Mrs. Wilcox.

When seen today, Mrs. Walton had not decided what she would do with the machine. She and Mr. Walton have a Chandler which they have considered selling or trading because they consider it too large for their needs. They are now debating whether to keep or sell the Ford. They formerly resided at 377 West Milford but sold their home in September and are now residing temporarily at 206 Maryland Court.

Gun Too Murderous for Use, is Rejected by King of France

In 1775 a Frenchman contrived a gun worked by the crank system capable of firing 240 bullets almost simultaneously. Louis XIV rejected it as too murderous for adoption.

It is well to know this, as the disarmament conference is on and you will find an editorial on this subject on the editorial page of this paper tonight. You will also find a wonderful article in "The Listening Post" about a goat butting a stone wall and a wise old owl giving the goat advice. It is a bit of choice philosophy from the pen of James W. Foley whose verses elsewhere in the paper you enjoy every evening.

Henry James has something about the tragedy of war, as Armistice Day recalled it, and Della Stewart touches on the eugenic congress.

Dr. Frank Crane writes on "Dynamic America" and his statistics about the number of families that possess wealth is interesting.

These are but a few of the many good things on the editorial page. You should make a habit of reading this page every evening.

Sunday night two armed men held up and robbed F. H. Todd of Los Angeles and Frank Loomis of Glendale at Park avenue and the Southern Pacific crossing. The robbery occurred across the line in Los Angeles but was reported to the Glendale police department and detectives are investigating it.

According to one of the victims, he and his companion were driving east on Park avenue when they were accosted by two men, one of them carrying a revolver and the other a flashlight. The hold-up men forced the victim to leave the automobile and stand at the side of the road while their pockets were rifled.

Mr. Todd was relieved of $11 and some receipts. Mr. Loomis lost $4.60 in cash, a pocket knife and a watch. Police officers were detailed to the case and an investigation started. The entire South Glendale district was searched but no trace of the bandits could be found.

HUSBAND SPANKED BY 125 POUND WIFE

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., Nov. 14.—To be spanked by his wife, who tips the scales at 125 pounds, proved too great a humiliation for 300-pound C. K. Spiers, a well-to-do merchant of Manitou, Colo., and he has filed suit for divorce against Nora Spiers, alleged lightweight champion "cave-woman."

In her answer to the complaint Mrs. Spiers declares that Spiers is the Jack Dempsey of the family and that he pasted her a couple on the chin several times, each time sending her down for the count.

Mrs. Spiers also charges that her husband took all her clothes, even to the unmentionables, locked them in a trunk and then took the key with him to prevent her from seeking an attorney.

In her complaint she says that her husband is worth $50,000 and asks for alimony and attorney's fees. Spiers is rated as one of the largest men in the state of Colorado.

CHIEF MARTIN KEEPS OFFICERS ON LOOK OUT FOR BANDITS

All Officers Have Instructions
With Regard to Action in Holdups

"Glendale police are prepared to prevent the recurrence of hold-ups similar to the one at Sebastian's grocery on Saturday night," said Chief of Police Martin today. "My officers responded promptly to the call on Saturday night and were on the job and will continue on the job at all times."

"Every man on the force is an expert shot with a revolver and I have issued orders to them to take no chances with bandits. Hold-up men need expect no favors in Glendale nor leniency. My men are on the job with instructions to take no chances with anyone caught molesting the property of others."

"Every man on the force is co-operating in an effort to prevent the recurrence of hold-ups here and I am asking that the business men of the city co-operate with them by depositing as much money as possible in the banks in the afternoon and particularly on Saturday afternoons, when such robberies are likely to occur. These deposits should be made in the afternoon before the banks are closed and I think that it would be wise for the business men to make some arrangements with the local banks whereby they could deposit money on Saturday afternoon between the hours of 4 p. m. and 6 p. m. A warm reception will be waiting for the next would-be hold-up men arriving in Glendale and the co-operation of the people in the matter of keeping as little money as possible in their cash registers on Saturday evening is requested."

EDUCATION WEEK TO BE DECEMBER 4TH OVER COUNTRY

High and Grammar Schools
Here to Co-operate Make
Real Celebration

Authorities at Glendale High are responding with enthusiasm to the joint call issued by the N. E. A. and the American Legion for the celebration of Education Week beginning December 4. When seen Monday, George U. Moyle, principal of the high school, mentioned as the big thing of the week in which the high school and grammar schools will co-operate, a monster parade of all the children in all the schools of the city who will be carried in automobiles over all the principal thoroughfares as an ocular demonstration to citizens of the magnitude in numbers of our local school system and a reason why school congestion is in such a chronic state.

The high school is also planning to entertain teachers and pupils of the grade schools in outlying districts and show them through the various departments of the school that they may know what their opportunities will be if they attend Glendale High after graduation from their home schools. The celebration will also include all the organizations allied with the schools, the teachers' clubs and the P. T. A. Articles to arouse citizens to the importance of the public school system will be published and meetings will probably be arranged which will be addressed by fine speakers. Glendale will celebrate Education Week thoroughly and her instructors and school officials say they will be in the van of the movement.

PASADENA THEATER HELD UP SUNDAY

PASADENA, Nov. 14.—Coming out of the Raymond theater here at 10 o'clock last night, two young bandits entered the box office, leveled guns at M. C. Howell, ticket seller, and demanded the contents of the till. Howell, who claims he knows both young men by sight, was making up the cash and told the men to "lay off," as he was busy. Threatening to shoot Howell, the cashier permitted the men to help themselves. They made away with $900 of the theater's nightly receipts.

DRIVE RECKLESSLY AFTER HUNT TRIP ARRESTED HERE

Officers Make Arrest and Find Empty Bottles in Car Sunday Night

Sunday night officers arrested five men driving an automobile on San Fernando road and Brand boulevard in a reckless manner. The automobile was searched and five bottles and a demijohn all bearing evidence of having contained liquor were found. They were taken to the police station and gave the names as John Kunich, Peter Olak, John George, Frank Duganich and Charles Norman, all of Los Angeles.

They were given the official test for drunkenness and all passed with the exception of John George who was held on a charge of intoxication and reckless driving. George supplied $25 bail and was released but Norman was held.

According to Norman, the men were returning from a hunting trip and the liquor was put in the car without his knowledge. He said that previous to leaving their camp on the return trip one of the members of the party placed a sack in the car that was later opened and found to contain several bottles of liquor. "Mr. Norman told the police that he did not drink any of the liquor as he does not drink and did not want it in the car."

MASTER OF HOUNDS NAMED BY HARDING

Wilson X. Jackson is Appointed Keeper of Laddie
Boy for Chief

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—When President Harding took office on March 4 last one of his first official acts was to nominate, confirm and place in office forthwith an ebony-hued messenger of the White House staff, one Wilson X. Jackson, as "Master of the Hounds." Jackson was then given full charge with authority to train and care for the new president's prize Airedale pup "Laddie Boy."

Jackson, despite his stature of nearly five feet, has a long head and he immediately grasped the possibilities of the situation. In looking over his charge he solemnly decided that a proper diet was absolutely necessary for Laddie Boy if the "pup" was to grow up to be a credit to the "boss" and himself.

Armed with his new authority he boldly invaded the White House kitchen and regarded the possibilities of the new cook. As a result of this inspection the new master of the hounds proudly announced several days later that the particular dish which Laddie Boy craved as a matter of necessity was "hot waffles."

Later a white bull pup was added to the White House kennels and christened "Oh Boy." As there was some doubt as to how the two dogs would get along Oh Boy was given a probationary period at the White House garage before becoming a member of Jackson's entourage. Recently, however, he was brought over to the White House and his training entrusted to Jackson. Jackson studied the dietary needs of his new charge as carefully as he had with Laddie Boy.

"What does Oh Boy crave to eat most?" he was asked recently by one who remembered Laddie Boy's penchant for waffles.

"He don't care nothin' for waffles," replied that individual, but he added solemnly: "He certainly has got a large appetite for watermelon."

Question of Naval Reduction Is Now Practically Settled He Believes

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—Any government that rejects the American program for limitation of armaments probably would be overthrown by "the people at home," William Jennings Bryan predicted here today. Armament limitation, he said, would be greatly aided by the establishment of an international tribunal to settle disputes.

By WILLIAM JENNINGS BRYAN
(Copyright, 1921, by United Press)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—A spirit of hope pervades the capital. Those who doubted while they waited for the delegates to assemble, now feel quite sure that, so far as fleets are concerned, the question is practically settled.

They argue that this government has, in all probability, already sounded the governments of Great Britain and Japan and that they will in due time, announce their acceptance of the plan of scrapping more than half of all the battleships afloat and will suspend building new ones for ten years.

They go farther—they argue that no government can reject the American offer without being overthrown by the people at home. Everywhere the world is weary of war and oppressed by the taxation imposed by war.

The debts of the world are more than six times as great as they were when the first gun was fired. All the surging dissatisfaction among the people would mass behind a protest, if

GLENDAL'S PEOPLE LIVE IN RICHEST CO. IN COUNTRY

Thirteen California Counties Among Richest 50
in United States

From the department of commerce reports, census of 1920, some remarkable and gratifying statistics concerning California are gleaned.

In the list of 50 counties leading all others in combined value of crops and live stock products, 13 are in California, and Los Angeles county leads them all, with a valuation of $71,579,899—$16,469,798 more than the second in the list, which is Fresno county. Ventura county, one of the smallest in the nation, is 50th in the list. This county joins Los Angeles on the north.

Other Southern California counties in the list are Tulare, San Bernardino, Orange, Santa Clara, Riverside and Imperial. The principal products of Los Angeles county are given as oranges, lemons, hay and forage, walnuts. The value of her crops alone was more than the combined value of crops and live stock in any other county in the United States.

Sugar beets were a factor in boosting Orange county; grapes helped out Fresno; Tulare and San Bernardino; dairy products figured largely in the totals for Fresno, Tulare and Imperial; prunes boosted Santa Clara; oranges and lemons nearly every county, and dry beans for little Ventura. Walnuts figured largely in many counties also. Strange to say, melons are not listed in the products of Imperial, but cotton heads the list.

Los Angeles county's proud position as the leading county of the nation in products of the soil is one that thrills with pride every one of its more than a million residents.

SHAKING HANDS IS CAUSE BREAKDOWN

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—The health of the nation is menaced by the American custom of shaking hands, Dr. Francesco X. Saverelli, health expert, declared here.

"President Wilson is suffering from the effects of too much hand shaking under nerve tension," he said. "The pernicious custom undoubtedly was a contributing factor in the death of Col. Theodore Roosevelt, and I am sure it was materially responsible for the death of Enrico Caruso."

"I do not think it will be many years before Americans turn to embracing or something other less harmful method of greeting."

FOUR GREAT WORDS SUBJECT OF SERMON

"Come, Follow, Abide, Go,"
Are Theme of Rev. Calderwood's Talk

The subject of Rev. C. M. Calderwood's sermon at the Congregational church Sunday morning was "Four Words of Jesus." These four words were: Come, Follow, Abide, Go.

A resume of his exposition follows:
"One word may express the central thought of teaching of the purpose of the action of many of our great men. Plato's word was 'know.' Epicurus' word was 'enjoy.' Darwin's was 'progress.' Gough's was 'perseverance.' Edison's was 'invention.' Charles R. Brown in one of his books has given us four words of Jesus which, he says, unlocks the door to his teaching. He shows us that these words are addressed primarily, not to the intelligence or the feeling alone, but to the will. Our minds and hearts have been appealed to and they have responded, but our weakness lies in a lack of response to the will. Our wills have not been translated into life what our hearts and minds have dictated. Without our wills dedicated, Christianity becomes weak, flabby and meaningless.

"The outstanding word at the beginning of Christ's ministry was, 'Come.' When Andrew and John saw Him and asked Him where He dwelt. He said, 'Come and see.' He invited them to the high level on which He lived. He invited them to have some personal experiences with Him. They saw where Jesus got His strength, and they saw what great ideals moved Him, and after having this valuable personal experience they went out and brought others to Jesus.

"Jesus asked those who were athirst to come. If the wells of our religion are dried up, the thing to do is to come to Jesus and there will be refreshment for the impoverished life.

"He said, 'Come unto Me all that labor and are heavy laden and I will give you rest.' This is not an invitation to laziness but to a renewal of life in fellowship with God in Christ.

"At another time Jesus said, 'He that cometh unto Me shall never hunger.' We need not hunger for any good thing. Our deepest longings can be satisfied in Jesus. There is satisfaction always when we are in close contact with Jesus.

"Jesus is the only one who can stand at the center of our charity and say, 'In as much as ye did it unto one of the least of these, ye did it unto me.' He is the only one who can stand at the center of our humanitarianism and say, 'Love is the fulfilling of the law.' He only can stand at the center of our liberty and say, 'Ye shall know the truth and the truth shall make you free.' He is the only one who can stand at the center of our great problems today and, as the Prince of Peace, help us to solve them. He has the right to stand at the center of these and say, 'Come.'

"The call of Jesus to come to Him can never rightly mean less to us than the entire dedication of our powers and energies to Him, as our ever-present Lord and Saviour. There are times when the call to come to Jesus becomes instinct with a new emphasis, as it was to Andrew on the afternoon when he was called. The call to be a Christian or to be a better Christian is a summons to be no more your own man, but to be a Christ's self-renouncing man, to dedicate your life with all its powers and possessions to the righteousness to which Christ dedicated His life.

"The next important word of Jesus is 'Follow.' When He called His disciples He told them to follow Him. He told the rich young ruler to sell all that he had and follow Him. If he were to follow Jesus it would mean the giving of his life and possessions to the service of others. A man is to follow Jesus he must deny himself, he must take up his own cross. Following Jesus means that we must direct our lives by the same great principles that directed His life.

"The third word that has been given us is, 'Abide.' We are to abide in Christ as the branch abides in the vine. We can't live our best lives without Him. This means constant fellowship. Through prayer we receive the life-giving energy that we need.

"The last word of Jesus is 'Go.' The last word that He had for His disciples was, 'Go ye into all the world and preach the Gospel.' "If coming, following and abiding do not eventuate in going, they amount to very little. If we have received a good impression we are obligated to express it. We go to church not to receive impressions alone but to carry these impressions out in Christian service.

Arbuckle Faces Jury In Sensational Case Today

Roscoe Arbuckle and Virginia Rappe.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 14.—Roscoe Arbuckle is facing trial today on the charge of manslaughter, more specifically for causing the death of Virginia Rappe, a member of his Labor Day party in a San Francisco hotel. Thirteen women are on the panel of jurors called to try the case. Behind the technical charge of manslaughter, which can mean ten years' imprisonment for Arbuckle, lies the fact that movie morals are on trial. Men who have millions invested in the film industry admit that on the guilt or innocence of Arbuckle hangs important results to the picture business.

WOMAN VIGILANCE COMMITTEE ENTERS

Arbuckle's Attorney Asks
Juryman if He Would be Guided by Women

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 14.—Whether a prospective juror is an Arbuckle "movie fan" and whether he believes Arbuckle is the greatest film comedian will largely determine whether a venireman will be eligible to sit on the jury trying Roscoe (Fatty) Arbuckle.

This was indicated by Assistant District Attorney Milton U'ren, in his questioning of prospective jurors. "Are you in any way connected with the motion picture industry?" U'ren asked J. C. Medley, a retired civil service employe, the first juror called. Medley said he was not.

"Have you ever seen the defendant in the films?"
"Yes, a dozen times."
"What do you think of him?"
"I never stopped to analyze my feelings. Of course I like his antics. I think he's funny."

"Do you think he is the greatest film comedian?"
"No, I think Charlie Chaplin is the greatest comedian."

"Would the fact that you were amused by the defendant's films cause you to be prejudiced, or would it cause you to ask the state to introduce any more evidence to obtain the conviction of this defendant than if he were not prominent?"
"No."

Medley was passed for cause by the state.
In his questioning of Medley, for the defense, McNab started a vigorous attack on the "women's vigilance committee."

"Have the women folks in your family discussed this case?" asked McNab.
"Not in my presence. I knew I was on this venire and was careful not to let anyone, especially my family, discuss the case in my presence."

"Have you ever heard the women's vigilance committee discussed?"
"Not in my presence."
"You knew that such a body of women had been formed for the purpose of trying to take part in this case?"
"I knew such an organization of women had been formed."

"Would this fact influence you in listening to this case and arriving at a verdict?"
"Not at all. I have not paid much attention to the matter one way or the other."

LOCAL BOARD WILL VISIT PASADENA

The board of directors of the Glendale chamber of commerce will be guests of the Pasadena Chamber of Commerce at a dinner to be given Tuesday noon in Hotel Maryland, the headquarters of the Pasadena C. of C. This will be a get-together affair. It is expected a number of the Glendale men will give short addresses on various phases of the work of a chamber of commerce.

Under the provisions of the Pennsylvania Law any worker who loses a hand receives six per cent of wages for 175 weeks.

Before the trial opened, both sides issued statements:

"A girl entered Roscoe Arbuckle's room and when she came out she was 'dying,' District Attorney Brady said. "We believe Roscoe Arbuckle was responsible for the girl's death. The defense seeks to try the girl on the basis of her alleged past life. The past of that beautiful girl is not an issue. It is being used to fog the real issue."

Defense lawyers denied they were attacking Miss Rappe's morals. "We merely want to show the scientific facts of her physical condition," declared the actor's counsel.

Breakfast

Uric acid in meat excites the kidneys, they become overworked; get sluggish, ache and feel like lumps of lead. The urine becomes cloudy; the bladder is irritated, and you may be obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night. When the kidneys clog you must help them flush off the body's urinous waste or you'll be a sick person shortly. At first you feel a dull misery in the kidney region, you suffer from back-ache, dizziness, stomach gets sour, tongue coated and you feel rheumatic twinges when the weather is bad.

Eat less meat, drink lots of water; also get from any pharmacist four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity, also to neutralize the acids in urine, so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and active. Drug-gists here say they sell lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in overcoming kidney trouble while it is only trouble.—Adv.

WILLIAM LUDLOW IS CALLED BY DEATH

Well Known Resident of Burbank Dies at Home of Son in Oceanside

William Ludlow, a well-known resident of Burbank, died at the home of his son Harry, at Oceanside, and funeral services were held at the funeral parlors of A. C. Filbach. A large gathering of friends attended the last rites which were conducted by Rev. Stevenson of the Presbyterian church. Miss Gladys Sheldon, a friend of the family, rendered most beautifully, two solos, favorites of the deceased. The interment was in Grandview cemetery, beside the wife who passed away 16 years ago.

Mr. Ludlow was born in England 81 years ago. He came to this country in prime of life and at first located in Port Wayne, Indiana, where he was engaged in railway service for a number of years. Leaving there, he came to this section where he has been for the past 34 years, most of which he spent in Burbank although for the last few years he resided with his son at San Fernando and at Oceanside.

The deceased is survived by three sons and one daughter, Benjamin and William Ludlow of this city and Harry Ludlow of Oceanside, and Mrs. William Phoenix of near Porterville, this state. There are also a number of grand children and great grand children surviving.

Mr. Ludlow had been in failing health for some time and rheumatism and other complications together with his advancing age, grew too severe to be withstood in his frail condition. In his death, Burbank loses one of its most highly respected and well-known citizens and a man who had a friend in every person who knew him. He was of a kindly, non-assertive disposition and made no enemies but called everyone a friend, and in turn, he held the confidence of all his associates.

DR. HOLLAND WILL FOLLOW PROFESSION

U. S. Trained Him in Chartered School So He Will Make His Living

"The United States government has trained me in a school chartered by the State of California, and I am going to follow my vocation regardless of what any other group of practitioners may do," thus spoke Dr. B. J. Holland, chiropractor at 310 Columbia building, and erstwhile private in Company F, 314th Engineers, Dr. Holland was seven months in hospitals and when discharged entered training under the Federal Board for Vocational Education as chiropractor. He has a D. C. degree and a post-graduate degree of P. H. C. His contention is that the government has trained him as chiropractor and has declared him rehabilitated; that is, has withdrawn training pay and expects him to carry on as a chiropractor.

"And yet, I may be arrested any day," declared the disabled veteran, "for restoring eyesight to Claude Swain, Jennie Remington and Lulu M. Sands, all of Los Angeles, and bringing good health to hundreds of others." Dr. Holland is a resident of Verdugo Hills, Glendale.

This was the first of a series of dances to be given by the lodge in this hall. The dances are being arranged by the entertainment committee, consisting of Wayne Frank, George Mutgett and H. L. King. Next Tuesday night the rank of Knight will be put on by the K. of P. lodge. There is a class of several members to be initiated into the order and all knights in the valley are requested to attend.

CLEVER DISPLAYS IN BANK WINDOW

First Savings Bank Has Telegraph Blanks From All Over World

Following their plan of featuring window displays that are educational as well as interesting the First Savings Bank has installed a window this week that for uniqueness excels anything attempted by them heretofore. The window is decorated with telegram and cable forms from all over the world. There are forms from Switzerland showing how a message is received by the Swiss telegraph operator on a piece of tape and then pasted on a receiving blank before delivery.

The Spanish system as illustrated in the window of the bank for the receiving and delivering of cables is different. The operator writes the message on a blank that is a combination blank and envelope. The French system for receiving cables is the same. There are cable forms in the window from France, Italy, Norway, Spain, Switzerland and Denmark.

The most unique part of the display is several yards of multigraphing tape used when main telegraph lines are overloaded. By using this tape it is possible to send eight messages over the same wire. The operator sending the message "punches" out the message on the tape which is then run through the transmitting machine causing the message to be automatically typewritten at the receiving end of the wire. According to a card accompanying the tape there are 50 of these machines in use at the Los Angeles office of the Western Union Telegraph Company, who supplied the various blanks used in the window display of the First Savings Bank.

BURBANK WILL NOT BE A STRINGTOWN

Business Grows in All Directions With More to Come Every Week

Burbank or Springtown? Which shall it be? I looked at San Fernando boulevard, San Fernando boulevard looked at me and the side streets didn't get a peep—but at last the new order is coming. It looked rather discouraging for a time and it seemed as though Springtown it was going to be, for the business building continued to stretch away and away along the one street, almost as far as eye could reach, and farther than the ordinary pedal extremities could walk and not wear out. Every one who added a new business structure to the city, and there have been many in the past few months, began operations on one end or the other of San Fernando boulevard until it seemed not unreasonable to believe that ere long we should forget there were more than two directions, but there is an end to every thing and so there now appears to be an end to San Fernando boulevard, for some business builders who have a vision of Burbank as a city of great proportions in the near future, are beginning work on the side streets.

Uncle Sam is one of the fore-sighted individuals who made the start, having moved into his new business office quite recently.

The First National Bank is making a start in the matter of opening up the side streets for business by erecting a three-room store building on Olive Street just back of the bank. These rooms it is expected will be ready for occupancy about the first of the year. One of them has been leased to C. E. Hough who will occupy it with the Chevrolet agency. The other two rooms have not been taken as yet.

Mason and Hanna are at work on their new building, also on Olive Street just off of the boulevard, which will be occupied as an office by Chas. B. Fisher. This will be finished in two or three weeks and then will commence the remodeling of the building fronting on the boulevard and occupied by Mr. Fisher, Thompson's real estate office and others.

Besides this work now in progress, there are several other business interests in and out of Burbank which are contemplating locating on the side streets. It is realized that this city has now grown to the size where it must spread out side-ways as well as lengthwise; that it may not forever run to two extremes, it must have four points of compass. It is not easy for the pioneers along this line any more than for the pioneers in any field, but for those who make the start, the more credit is due.

Nothing for the good of mankind has ever occurred on this earth to compare with the hopes and aims of the great men who are now assembling in Washington, except the coming of Christ.

The Glendale Daily Press will carry extended stories of the actions of the great men in Washington, and every citizen of Glendale should read of the progress made to protect future generations and relieve the present generation from almost unbearable taxation as a result of wars and the construction of armament.

If you are not a subscriber to the Glendale Daily Press, call Glendale 97 and order it delivered to your home or office every week-day afternoon. With it will be the Los Angeles Evening Express, both to you for only 65 cents per month, and besides you get a $1000 accident policy absolutely without cost.

Truths in Epigram

An ass may bray a good while before he shakes the stars down.—George Eliot (1819-1880).

Alas! It is not till time, with reckless hand, has torn out half the leaves from the Book of Human Life to light the fires of passions from day to day, that man begins to see that the leaves which remain are few in number.—H. W. Longfellow (1807-1882).

HUMANITY THEN AND NOW

It is said that even so far back as 1775 a Frenchman had contrived a gun that by a crank system, could fire 240 bullets almost simultaneously. This was rejected by Louis XIV, as a weapon that could annihilate a regiment was deemed too murderous for adoption. This, then, was the beginning of the machine gun; a feeble instrument indeed, beside the modern machine gun.

No gun now would be rejected for being too murderous. It might be thrown aside because of limited killing capacity.

The most deadly gun ever constructed would seem an instrument of mercy compared with Lewisite. This is a gas said to contain fifty-five times the potency of any gas used in the late world war. No mask could be a protection against it. The slightest contact with human tissue, even with the skin of the hand, means death.

A few bombs of this horrid compound dropped into a city would mean the end of life there; of all life, animal or vegetable. There could be no escape. It is said by scientists that soil touched by Lewisite could not thereafter produce any crop for seven years. This must be regarded as conjecture, but no matter whether or not it is true. There would be no need of a crop, for a dead race would be immune to hunger.

Had the war not ended when it did, Lewisite would have been employed. This would have involved the wiping out to the last soul of the population in any city attacked.

In "the next war" dreamed of by mad militarists, Lewisite would be a chief weapon. "Under its fumes cities would vanish. There is no reason to suppose that any city could escape. An invading enemy first destroying the coast cities could not be kept from the interior. The trail to be left would be desolation unspeakable and final.

Just as the disarmament conference comes to order, it is well to cite a few of the reasons why civilization is opposed to war. It is the law of self preservation that is finding expression in the determined pronouncement that war is intolerable, unthinkable, beyond the consideration of sane peoples.

PRISON FOR SYNDICALISTS

In Oakland six men have been sentenced to prison for one to fourteen years. Their crime was violation of the syndicalist law. There can be no clemency for such offenders. They constitute a menace to society and particularly to industrial enterprise.

One of the men on hearing his sentence cried out "If this be justice, then to hell with justice." All marched out singing. Truly an extraordinary group.

It is not to be believed that all these men are bad intrinsically. They have listened to false teachers. Into their minds has been driven an obsession concerning what they conceive to be wrongs, for who is not? Their weakness is in believing that violence, bad faith, destruction—whatever form hatred may take—is a remedy. Individuals become so permeated with fallacious beliefs that they are called lunatics. Insanity seizes upon gatherings where doctrines, political or religious, are expounded in a fervor of zeal. Communities are swept by emotional waves that amount to eclipse of normal mentality.

Among syndicalists doubtless there are the lazy and vicious, bent on mischief; despising the prosperous because prosperity has not sought them out as well; despising effort because they desire both golden rewards and lives of ease. These furnish the leaven. They act upon the elements that misfortune has thrown into contact with them, poisoning the minds of the weak, making the hardships of the lowly appear as gross injustices deliberately created and piled upon them by the "master" class.

While it is impossible to condone the acts of the dupes, it is possible to understand that some of them are victims of circumstance. When sorely tried, and perhaps justly indignant at untoward specific experience, they come within the sphere of a sinister influence, and necessity arises for restraining them, and they go singing to the martyrdom of the zealot.

THE OPTIMIST AND THE OTHER

It could be wished that H. G. Wells might curb his pessimism a little. He came over to see and hear the disarmament conference. All he seems to have seen yet is impending doom. He has heard (in advance) the crash of civilization. With all respect and admiration for the great English thinker, this sort of thing gets tiresome. Calamities apparently imminent have been known to retreat in the face of a bold advance, and to disappear.

To show the melancholy mood that has taken possession of Wells, may be cited, the following excerpt from his latest writing:

"This war talk between Japan and America may end as abruptly as the snarling of two dogs overtaken by a flood. There may not be another great war after all, because both in Japan and America social disruption may come first."

One hesitates to apply the term "piffle" to the product of a genius whom it often has been a delightful duty to praise. Therefore let it be said merely that Wells is getting morbid. He is having, not his clear-eyed vision of old, but seeing phantoms.

The danger of war with Japan, even were there no conference to be held, would remain remote. Its precipitation could be accomplished only through some mad act of Japan. Were Japan to attack the United States, the necessity for repelling it could not be evaded. But the Japanese are shrewd. Their policy never has been the policy of a lunatic. Wells hints, obscurely it is true, that the Japanese are going crazy. No one else has noticed the symptoms.

In pleasing contrast to the Wells doldrums is the state of mind displayed by Dr. Robert A. Milliken of the California Institute of Technology. He not only is a trained educator, an observer of extraordinary keenness, but a scientist of high attainment.

In a recent address the doctor noted the problems that so upset the equanimity of Wells. Nevertheless he reaches the conclusion that "the next twenty years may see greater strides in scientific, spiritual and moral progress, than was made from the days of ancient Egypt to the days of our own grandfathers forty years ago."

There! That's talking sense in human language. Wells will recognize the point of difference between the opinion of the doctor and his own.

The tendency of civilization might be towards self destruction if there was lacking the wisdom to guide it. Such wisdom may be lacking. If so the Wells estimate is right, and all the rest of the world plunged above the eyebrows into a morass of error.

No possible consequence is to be attached to the statement of Lefine that America will soon be at war. He would like to see the whole world at war, and is but speaking his foolish wishes aloud.

Federal Prohibition Commissioner Haynes says there are sections of this country in which a beautiful, well-dressed and artful woman may commit any crime, including murder, and escape conviction. The peculiarity of the statement is that it should have indicted only part of the country. California does not want to accept all the blame for this sort of court procedure.

Proposals that the debts of Europe to this country be written off the books do not come from the debtor nations. They do not come from the creditor nation. They are mere allegations set up by agitators in order that they may have a target for their mud ammunition.

Dr. Ford A. Carpenter, addressing the students of Occidental college, asserted that Mexico deserves recognition. Many times have intelligent observers given similar opinion. The doctor had just returned from a sojourn in Lower California where he noticed the prevalence of good order, and the maintenance of friendly spirit. The public is unaware of reason why Mexico should not now be one of the family of nations, represented at the conference by qualified delegates.

Thievery is so common that the exhibition of a new variety was deemed impossible until lately. Films of moving pictures, prepared at great expense, have been stolen and shipped abroad in a number of instances. Oriental shrewdness was necessary to the success of the scheme, but even this quality kept the head of the gang out of jail only a short time.

DYNASTIC AMERICA

By DR. FRANK CRANE

Henry H. Klein, First Deputy Commissioner of Accounts for the City of New York, has recently published a volume entitled "Dynastic America, and Those Who Own It."

The book is an argument in favor of the limitation of private fortunes.

Whatever we may think of the author's conclusions, the facts which he marshals to buttress it are of intense interest.

He shows that the great wealth of this country, which is the richest nation in the world, is controlled by a very few people.

While the world has been upsetting the dynasties of Europe, more and greater dynasties have been arising in the United States than ever existed in the Old World.

The wealth power of the American dynasties is greater than all the king power combined.

These dynasties he lists as the Dynasty of Oil, the Dynasty of Copper, the Dynasty of Beef, the Dynasty of Coal, the Dynasty of Steel, the Dynasty of Railroads, the Dynasty of Gas, Electric Light and Traction, the Dynasty of Ships, the Dynasty of Tobacco, the Dynasty of Rubber, the Dynasty of Sugar, the Dynasty of Telephone and Telegraph, and others.

Several of these are ruled by the same set of men and families.

The Dynasty of Oil is ruled by Rockefeller, who is the richest man in the world, owning or controlling some two and a half billion dollars.

The other dynasties are ruled by a small group of men and families, including Morgan, Phelps, Baker, Vanderbilt, Swift, Armour, Guggenheim, Harriman, Bradley, Schiff, Ryan, Havemeyer, Spreckels, du Pont and others.

More than 40 families in the United States have an excess of $100,000,000 each.

More than 100 other families have an excess of $50,000,000 each.

More than 300 families have an excess of $20,000,000 each.

These families control the leading industries, utilities and banks.

The great bulk of their fortunes has been left to mediocre and inefficient heirs. But their assets can never diminish so long as private monopoly and the cohesive power of great wealth endure.

Of 200,000,000 stockholders in the leading corporations of the United States, less than 1 per cent controls. Ownership of the majority of stock is not necessary for control.

While the instinct of the American people is against interfering with the liberty of the individual in private enterprise, there is no doubt that it would be wise to put a limit to the extent to which wealth can be controlled by single individuals and irresponsible groups.

The best defense against bolshevism and revolution is not to attack and persecute radicals, but to establish justice and equal opportunity.

Europe is now in chaos because of the downfall of her hereditary dynasties.

It might be just as well for the people of the United States to see that their industrial fabric does not become so top-heavy, that it eventuates in a similar calamity.

THE LISTENING POST

A goat was butting a stone wall.
As goats have been said to do.
Having proverbially thick skulls and being able to butt a lot without damaging themselves.
Thick skulled animals are usually of the butting variety.

Because it is a very natural thing to make use of the obvious weapon for offense and defense.
And the thick skull becomes a weapon of offense and defense when driven forward by the impact of the body muscles.

The animals and the human beings of the world make use of various methods and means of offense and defense.
The physically weak and puny animals use craft or speed.
Or the ability of conceal themselves.

The powerful animals use strength.
The painstaking animals use persistence.
As with the beaver who cuts down trees with sharp teeth.

Felling them as skillfully as a woodsman.
In just the right place.
Gnawing them through with his teeth at just the right angle.

Proving that the beaver is pretty well equipped by nature and instinct for the work in hand.

Possibly you have seen an axeman fell a tree in the woods.
He chops and saws and adjusts and calculates until when his tree falls it falls in just the right place.
Missing other trees.

It is part of the woodsman's business.

So it is a part of the beaver's business to fell trees.

And make a dam.
So he may have water in a pool.

But to get back to the goat:
For the purposes of this Listening Post he was butting away at a stone wall.

And making little progress.
Because the harder he butted the greater the rebound when he fell back.

But he persisted.
Because he had room in his head for only one idea.

Which was to get through the stone wall.
And the only means he knew was to butt a way through.

Just as with some people.
Who have only one idea.
Which is to get through some stone wall.

And the only means they have is to butt a way through.
Figuratively speaking.

A philosophical old owl sat in a tree.
Not far from the stone wall.
And he watched the goat seeking to butt a way through.
And being a philosophical and kindly creature he felt sorry.
And was disposed to discuss the matter with the goat.

So he spoke to the goat.
Between butts.
While the goat was rising from his haunches to go at the wall again.
And he said:
"What is the idea?"

And the goat said:
"I want to get on the other side of the stone wall."
And the owl said:
"But why do you butt your head against it?"
And the goat said:
"Because that is the only way to get on the other side. I must batter the wall down."

And the owl said:
"At the rate you are going you will be a long time getting across. You haven't even dented the wall yet."
And the goat said:
"If I keep butting long enough I will batter it down."
And the owl said:
"You will if your years and your skull hold out."

And the goat said:
"Since you are so wise, perhaps you will tell me how to get on the other side of the wall."

And the owl said:
"I will be glad to do so, without charge. Turn to your right or left and walk a short distance and you will come to the end of the wall. Then go around the end and walk back on the other side."

Which the goat did.
And reached the other side of the wall as he wished.
Without tracking his skull.
And he thanked the owl.

"How did you come to think of that?" asked the goat.
"By making use of the inside of my skull instead of the outside," said the owl.

SONGS OF THE POETS

A Lad That Is Gone—By Robert Louis Stevenson (1850-1894)

Sing me a song of a lad that is gone;
Say, could that lad be I?
Merry of soul he sailed on a day
Over the sea to Skye.

Mull was stern, Rum on the port,
Eigg on the starboard bow;
Glory of youth glowed in his soul:
Where is that glory now?

Sing me a song of a lad that is gone;
Say, could that lad be I?
Merry of soul he sailed on a day
Over the sea to Skye.

Give me again all that was there,
Give me the sun that shone!
Give me the eyes, give me the soul,
Give me the lad that's gone!

Sing me a song of a lad that is gone;
Say, could that lad be I?
Merry of soul he sailed on a day
Over the sea to Skye.

Billow and bronze, islands and seas,
Mountains of rain and sun,
All that was good, all that was fair,
All that was me is gone.

OBSERVED AT A GLANCE

By HENRY JAMES

Just to accentuate the beauties of peace the government has a new type of submarine having a radius of 10,000 miles.

Pictures of the "prettiest girl in the United States" are being published. Her superior in pulchritude may be seen in any block of a city street.

People wonder if the wage cut advocated by packers will slice a bit off the price of bacon.

Hoover has called Mayor Thompson down hard. Probably Thompson is flattered at the attention, but no bump could reform him.

The Watson method of buzzing indicates that a piece of flypaper in the senate chamber might catch him.

It is needless to say much about the tax bill until it has come out of conference and permitted a glimpse of its shape then.

EASTERN POINT OF VIEW

AGAINST ENDLESS DEBATE
[Chicago News]

Several of the members of the United States senate have formed a new sort of "bloc"—one well worthy of encouragement. Weary of interminable and futile talk in the senate chamber they advocate the adoption of an effective rule, but it is seldom invoked.

The senate has a cloture rule, but it is seldom invoked. The reason is plain—a two-thirds vote is required to limit debate. Only in exceptional cases can such a decisive majority be mustered. Why, ask the younger senators, should not a bare majority vote be sufficient to limit discussion?

Certainly common sense suggests that it should.

JUST BETWEEN OURSELVES

By DELLA M. STEWART

One of the speakers at the recent eugenic congress in New York city asserted that the world was suffering from a shortage of minds big enough to deal with its problems, and urged all to save civilization by producing a race of demigods. As an experiment in this direction the Oklahoma Agricultural College has already borrowed a healthy boy baby and will try to make of him a superior type by exerting every effort to give him ideal surroundings and extreme good care.

How much will be accomplished by this method? Unless scientists are greatly at fault once more, much that will influence the life of that baby has already been done in the brains and physical characteristics of his ancestors. Although there is some relationship between a healthy body and a healthy mind, it is not always in evidence. Else how could we have had the genius of Keats, sickly and discouraged; Voltaire, never free from pain; Pope, sewed up each day in a stiff packet that he might be able to accomplish his work?

There have been others, strong of body, favored in training and environment, who have spent their days in dissipation and crime. The quality of human nature is elusive. That which is embodied in weakness may be better than that housed in strong husks. It takes thousands of years to effect race betterment.

Animal life can be bettered by wholesome surroundings and good care. Are qualities of mind and soul so easily imparted?

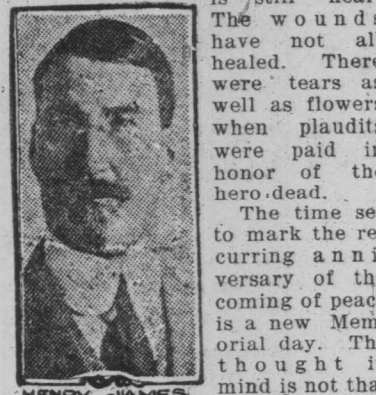

The insurgents ought to persevere and modernize the antiquated procedure of a body whose rules remind one unpleasantly of the "free vote" of the old Polish constitution. In the United States a single senator cannot veto a bill, but in certain circumstances he can talk it to death.

Legislative business cannot be transacted properly under such rules. The senate is not a club for idlers. It is a branch of congress and its rules should be revised from time to time to enable it to legislate with efficiency and reasonable expedition.

Comment on the News

By HENRY JAMES

Celebration of this Armistice day had in it the element of poignant sorrow. The tragedy of war is still near.

The wounds have not all healed. There were tears as well as flowers when plaudits were paid in honor of the hero-dead. The time set to mark the recurring anniversary of the coming of peace is a new Memorial day. The thought in mind is not that three years ago peace followed the awful clamor of war, it is of the brave and patriotic dead, and of the living who faced the dangers of battle, and came back. This day belongs to them; belongs to those who sleep, to the maimed, as well as to the splendid body of manhood made up of veterans, who under providence, were permitted to come back unscathed to the land that had sent them away with blessings and with pride.

In beautiful Arlington an unknown soldier is laid to rest with every sign of distinction that an appreciative nation knows how to bestow. At his grave stand those to whom he had been comrad at arms. His name they could not tell. His rank is a secret. The part of the country whence he hailed has not been revealed. He was an American soldier, that was all. He fought and died as thousands of others. Though high officials, and some of the great of the earth, stand bareheaded in the silent presence, the pageantry is not to him alone. It signifies the gratitude of a nation to all the vast armed concourse of which he had been a unit. It is the visible expression of the emotion stirring the hearts of a mighty people.

In time to come it may be that Armistice day, the griefs assuaged by passing seasons, may take on a new significance.

Peace, the new birth of which it marks, has not been a perfect peace. The turmoil set up in the human soul by the demands of war, the disturbed economic conditions, the wild play of passion, the losing of hatreds, the sway of violence, could not have been expected to subside on the instant. Yet such was the effect for which mortals in their unthinking gladness had hoped.

The disarmament conference was called for Armistice day. The opening was deferred only because of the desire to devote the time to a program of formal salutation to valor. Despite this interregnum, the signing of the armistice, and the opening of the campaign to bring the nations of the world into amity, will be associated in history.

If the enterprise, so nobly conceived, shall come to fruition, ever after, Armistice day will be the holiday span not of one nation, not even only of those allied in the world war, but of every nation upon which the sun shall shine.

This world should be the seat, the throne of tranquility and happiness. The soldier buried at Arlington had done his best to advance the coming of ideal relationships among men. He was fighting the spirit of greed which is the cause of human contention and misery. He was fighting for liberty, which must be the possession of all before civilization may go forwards towards the ideal.

If the nations could trust each other there would need be no concerted action before any of them could cast aside the burden of armament. If the quest for power, the ambition to usurp, the policy of preying upon neighbors, or fearing neighbors, all were to cease, arms would be needless and useless. The task of piling them up would become an anomaly, a reproach to common sense, absurd and grotesque; the mere gesture of folly unspeakable.

The country owes to its dead and unknown soldier more than the tribute of praise; more than a display of pomp; more than ceremonial mourning.

It owes to him the pledge that his sacrifice was not in vain. It owes to humanity tireless effort to promote the peace and security for which the unknown strove and died.

Do not the races, wherever they may be, owe to God a solemn duty to keep sweet and safe the world that has been given to them as an abiding place?

Do You Know That—

The belief in brownies in England may be a survival from ancient times, when a small, dark race of aborigines inhabited the country.

A string of kites sent up by the weather bureau in northeastern Oklahoma broke loose in a high wind and was subsequently found at a place in Kansas 150 miles away.

Fish that prey on mosquito larvae were used on a large scale in freeing the city of Guayaquil from yellow fever. They were placed in the thousands of receptacles in which the inhabitants keep their domestic water supply.

That each may claim you for his own.

Wednesday—
A prince's coat you may have worn,
Or rags have dressed you in the past;
Perhaps you were an alien-born,
Though All-American at last.

Your blood has quenched along its course
The fires of hate, and who can tell
But that pure stream, with gathering force,
May some day quench the fires of hell!

From fields with Flanders poppies red,
You're coming back, no more to roam,
And with your martyred make your bed
In daisy-sprinkled fields of home.

For all our brave who died with you,
On lonely watch, in crowded ranks,
Now sleeping all the long years through,
Receive a nation's humble thanks.

KINGSLEY, DUTTON TAKES A BRIDE

Of no small interest to Glendaleans is the announcement of the marriage of Kingsley Dutton, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Dutton of 113 West Los Feliz road, this city, which was celebrated at the home of his bride in Springfield, Cal.

November 9 his wedding to Lillie Elizabeth Neal took place at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William R. Neal, in the presence of a large number of relatives and friends. A large service was read by Rev. L. A. Wood, rector of St. John's Episcopal church of Porterville. The bride was given in marriage by her father and was a pretty figure in her wedding gown of white crepe de chine, over which fell a long bridal veil and she carried a bouquet of bride's roses and maiden-hair fern. The attending bridesmaid was Miss Mildred Shore of Porterville who was given in Nile green silk and carried a bouquet of Cecil Brunner roses. Little Jean Taylor, who was the flower girl, was in pink organdie. Lawrence Dutton, brother of the bridegroom, was best man and little Baby Neal was ring bearer. The sister of the bride, Miss Gwendolyn Neal, played the wedding march. A beautiful setting was provided in the lavishly decorated home of the bride with mountain ferns and white chrysanthemums.

Following the ceremony and reception a wedding supper was served at the adjoining home of the sister and brother-in-law of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Taylor.

The bride is a beautiful and accomplished girl, a graduate of the Friends Select School for Girls in Philadelphia. Mr. Neal was formerly county superintendent of schools in Washington and a member of the state legislature. He is now engaged in a mercantile business in Springfield.

The bridegroom spent his boyhood in South Glendale, and for the past five years has been in the employ of the Southern California Edison Co. He is now superintendent of the Tule River No. 2 hydro-electric plant, where a home is now being built for the couple.

Opera was the theme of the afternoon and the program opened with a talk on its development by Mrs. Hoffman.

Mrs. Mitchell gave the story of "Thais," and a sketch of Massenet, the composer, and a Victrola record of "Meditation" was played.

Mrs. Peckham told the story of "Faust" and played a piano selection from the opera. Refreshments were then served. On account of the Armistice day program not as many members were present as usual.

The sale includes all their furnishings, some of which Mrs. Lawson is surrendering with reluctance.

FISH 426 POUNDS
AVALON, Catalina Island, Calif., Nov. 15.—Mrs. Keith Spalding, wife of a widely known California sportsman, has accomplished what famous fishermen have been seeking to do for a year. While cruising about recently in a powerful motor launch she got a bite and, after a battle of about an hour, brought to gaff a broadbill swordfish weighing 426 pounds. It was the second largest of the species ever caught in these waters.

A CHAIR SHOULD BE INVITING extending a welcome of cozy hospitality to all who enter the room. Just such a charming piece of furniture can be made from your stiff, old-fashioned chair, by the GLENDALE CARPET AND MATTRESS WORKS of 1411 S. San Fernando Rd. Why not have it re-upholstered and made over for Mother as a Xmas gift? If she prizes it now for the sentiment attached, how much more she'll enjoy it when it has been completely gone over. The Glendale Carpet and Mattress Works really work wonders with old furniture, and their prices are extremely low, too!

Contrasting braid bindings are very prominent just now. This trimming is used for the sleeveless dress.

Think of it—this week you will pay only half of what you'd ordinarily be charged! Of course you

CHORAL CLUB WILL PRESENT PROGRAM

All American Concert Arranged for Big Feast of Music Here

The Choral Club of Burbank assisted by the Burbank orchestra, is arranging for an elaborate entertainment to be given November 29 in the auditorium of the grammar school. It will be an all-American concert, and a beautiful and appropriate setting for this theme will be provided.

In the program will be Indian singing and dancing in costume by some of the school children under the direction of Miss Weinstock, physical director, and the Boy Scouts will give a drill and flag salute and also one of their songs. The club will offer selections by its ladies' octette, men's chorus and several soloists.

An effort is being made to interest the school children in American music and to this end the Choral club will offer cash prizes for the best essays on the subject to be given each class of the grammar school and to the high school. The exact wording of the subject has not been decided upon, but will be given out in a few days and then the pupils may go to work upon their essays. The prizes will be presented on the evening of the entertainment.

The Choral club is an organization of which Burbank may well be proud. It has presented a number of excellent programs in Los Angeles and surrounding cities which have been well received and added to the placing of Burbank on the map. While the co-operation of each member has been of vital importance in the building up of the club to its present high standing as a musical organization, there is much credit to be given Director Charles L. Munro who has given splendid service to the club and its interests. He is a musician and musical director of unusual ability and extended experience, having directed in Detroit before coming to this section. He is the organizer of the Apollo Club of Los Angeles, and now to Burbank he has brought his knowledge and inspiring musical talents.

The club has a membership of about fifty. Its officers are Mrs. W. F. Craig, president; E. F. Ramsey, vice-president; Mrs. Elizabeth H. Knox, secretary; Mrs. Homer Jones, treasurer; A. S. Ricketts, librarian. The directors are Hugh Campbell, E. E. Emerson, Mrs. Margaret Yale, and Mrs. Helen Allen. Mrs. Myrtle Radcliff Hart and Mrs. Zefer Algots Sparrows are the accompanists.

The purpose of the club is the study of choral music and also the education of the public taste along musical lines, and in this, it is of the greatest benefit to the people of Burbank. The concerts which the club gives several times throughout the year are not only vastly entertaining but educational as well. It is a generally conceded fact that the American people are lacking in musical inclination which is psychologically at least, unfortunate, and considerable nationwide talk has been promoted to the correction of this fault and efforts to cultivate an interest in music, nationally, are being made all over the country, and so it is well for Burbank that it has an organization so conducive to its musical interests.

BLUEBEARD HAD CHILDREN NUMBERED

VERSAILLES, France, Nov. 14.—"Bluebeard" Landru, on trial for the murder of ten of his 285 alleged fiancées, told the court today that he frequently referred to his children by numbers.

The modern Don Juan at first was unable to explain several mysterious figures in a note book. The prosecution claimed these had to do with the hour of the murder of Madame Colombe, one of his alleged victims.

"They might indicate one of my children," Landru said at last, somewhat vaguely. "I often referred to them by numbers."

You can't always tell what a man thinks of you by what he says.

The man who tells you that he is no fool may only be mistaken.

NICE DESSERT
A tart of bread and molasses is a good dessert or after-school dainty for children. To make it, rub half a cup of lard into two cups of flour and add half a teaspoonful of salt and enough water to make a stiff paste. Roll as if for biscuits or pie and line in a greased tin with the pastry. Mix a quantity of bread crumbs with eight tablespoonfuls of molasses and the grated rind and strained juice of a whole lemon.

A SAVORY NUT ROAST
Slice and toast a loaf of bread. Grind fine and add one pound of chopped nut meats, two cups of chopped celery, one pound of tomatoes, half cup chopped onions, two tablespoons of melted butter, teaspoon of salt, teaspoon of pepper and two eggs well beaten. Bake in moderate oven one hour. Decorate with lemon and serve with tomato sauce.

And for the afternoon tea the Elite always has fresh, dainty little cakes that are a perfect joy to serve. If you follow the habit of always letting the Elite provide your desserts you'll never be disappointed. They also deliver ice-cream and cake, when guests drop in during the evening!

DR. REMSEN BIRD IS HEARD HERE SUNDAY

Addressed Large Congregation at Presbyterian Church on Peace Plan

The people of the Presbyterian church were addressed Sunday morning by Dr. Remsen Bird, new president of Occidental College, at Eagle Rock. Dr. Bird's valuable address can be only slightly represented by a resume.

The current of history does not flow smoothly as a river. On the contrary, for periods it is stationary, congealed like a glacier. Then suddenly there comes a spark, fire, the glacier melts, the flow of history moves swiftly for a brief time, and then it congeals to the slow glacier again. At points there are great upheavals which change the course of history. Such a one was John the Baptist, such was Peter the Hermit—Europe was different after him. Later came Luther and in the brief span from 1517 to 1530 his life caused a great change, and then fifty fell again.

Now we are in one of those periods of change, as it was in the sixteenth century—a period of question; the worth of everything is questioned, even of the church. And we must consider these questionings. A dean of the English church is now saying democracy is a failure. Among all this the college comes into question; there are those who question its worth. We stand to defend it. It is the most important factor in our fabric after the church. Among colleges the most important is the small, limited college. Universities take in a great student body and give many types of training. The limited college means the institution which gives a general, not a specific education. Dr. Meiklejohn, of Amherst, says of such education, "We are devoted to study of human living, in order that human living may be better done." A father puts his son into his business to learn it from the foundation up, and then does nothing to train him in the highest of things—that is not education.

The small college says it can only train a small number, not a multitude, and so it can and will train that number deeply. And it says, "We hold to certain views which are not those of the multitude, so we must have only those willing to think this way." That college can accomplish most which aims at service and not exploitation, which takes the young at the malleable stage and makes the most out of them. It seeks to give them a right attitude of mind, a right perspective. "I lived in German schools, before the war. Was there ever a people so trained but so lacking the training of the soul?" Young souls need most of all the fruits of the Spirit, the right attitude of mind and the right appreciations. We so lack the best appreciations. Do you notice what is to be seen in the book-stalls? How year by year a few more things that are evil appear there? This represents the increasing demand. John Keats lived only 25 years and wrote a few poems, but his few are immortal. We need to build up the right appreciations and aspirations.

H. G. Wells is trying to find out why God gets done with nations and they go down and out. The reason is, "Where there is no vision the people perish." Aspiration gone, the people perish. Now no nation ever had more than the United States. Just yesterday we said those terrible evils across the sea must be put down. And then we came home played out. Now where are we going to get it again but in the small Christian college? Our own Occidental College has many needs in order that it shall be able to measure up to the opportunity and privilege. What a power it could be in the state! Making Christian character in order that human living may be better done.

TRAILER FINDS HIS LOST COURAGE

By JOHN BARTON

(Copyright, 1921, by The Associated Newspapers)

Now you know why Maltie Kitten's plans went wrong the right way. If Trailer the Hand had sneaked back to the cabin of Maltie's Man his master, Sandy (the big cousin who was so good to Tommy Peele) wouldn't have had any more use for him at all. If the foxes hadn't tackled him and just made him fight, Sandy wouldn't have found him shaking a newly torn ear and choking over a mouthful of fox fur. He was fooled ever so much better than Maltie expected to fool him.

And Off He Went, So Fast That Sandy's Roar Couldn't Begin to Keep Up With Him.

"Good dog!" he exclaimed. "Good old boy! I might have known you weren't afraid of a little thing like a fox." He was perfectly sure when he said the foxes had been chasing Trailer. "Errrrrr!" growled the hound, combing the hairs off his tongue with his little fine front tooth could take the way dogs do. "Afraid? Who? Me? I'll show you if I'm afraid of them!" He meant it, too.

Now, wasn't that the funniest thing? When Sandy called him a coward Trailer had believed him. And he was one. Neither Tommy Peele's wise dog Watch, nor Redskin, the big bold colt, or even Maltie Kitten could persuade him he'd ever been a good dog—why, Trailer believed him that time, too. And so he was. Yes, sir; the very same hound who had been yelping like a whipped puppy five minutes before—till his paws were too full of fighting those smart foxes who picked on him—that very dog felt bold as a lion. You could just see him swell up. He took a good, deep breath; he raised his ragged ear and whipped up his tail. "Come on!" he bayed in his deepest voice. And off he went, so fast that Sandy's roar couldn't begin to keep up with him.

The small fox was completely out of sight. But Trailer could find the big one without wasting any time at trailing it. Out across the Big Marsh he could hear Tommy Peele shouting at his dog Watch to catch it. And he could see Tommy and Louie Thomson bobbing about on the back of the big bay colt as he galloped after it. So he held up his head and streaked after them on the very shortest of short cuts. But he paid special attention to where he put his feet.

They didn't. The chase was just too exciting! The fox was so very close. He looked scared right out of his wits, but he knew just where he was leading them, all the same, and just why he was doing it. Sure enough—splash went the horse, wallow went the dog in the deep, sticky mud. Now Mr. Bushy-tail could take his time to get safely away—if Trailer didn't get there to keep him from doing it.

SENATOR BORAH IS ELATED AT PARLEY

Commends Hughes for New Way of Dealing with World's Affairs

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—The American program presented at the Arms conference was praised last night by Senator Borah as the first great triumph of open diplomacy. His statement follows:

"I have only the most sincere praise for the manner in which Secretary Hughes has gone about the business of the conference. His open presentation of his program marks an epoch in the history of international relations. It will receive the commendation of the great body of people throughout the three continents. It is the first great triumph of open diplomacy. To close the doors now, or at any time in the future, seems incredible. "As to the program, it is a splendid beginning. I hope Great Britain and Japan under the inspiration of the great movement and in behalf of an imperiled civilization, will move still further toward real disarmament."

DEATHS AND FUNERALS

WILLIAM F. WOOD

William F. Wood died early Sunday morning at his home, 1470 East Wilson avenue, of heart trouble after an illness of less than a week. Funeral services will be held tomorrow at 2 p. m. at the home, in charge of the Jewel City Undertaking company, Rev. Ernest E. Ford officiating. Interment will be in Forest Lawn.

Mr. Wood was born near Marsland, Clark county, Illinois, November 10, 1855. Eleven years later the family made the long trip by ocean steamer to California, locating in Sutter county. On January 11, 1884, Mr. Wood was married in Los Angeles to Miss Louise C. Thacker and the young couple spent the first year of their wedded life in San Francisco, then moved to Ventura county. In 1909 they came to Glendale, living the first three years on Orange Grove avenue, then moving to the beautiful ranch home on East Wilson.

Deceased is survived by the wife and four children, all of whom were at his bedside when he died. The children are Forrest, of Marion, California; Mrs. Roger J. Williams of Oregon City, Oregon; Mrs. Harry W. Chase of Glendale, and Dale G., who lived with his parents.

Mr. Wood had been a member of the Baptist church for over 40 years. He was a deacon of the Glendale First Baptist church and was a trustee of Redlands University. He was a man of sterling worth, quiet and unassuming in manner, yet never afraid to express his very decided convictions on right and wrong.

REV. COLE SPEAKS ON COUNTERPART

Christ and His Church Is Theme of Able Sermon in Christian Church

Rev. C. A. Cole, pastor Central Christian church, took for his theme Sunday morning "Christ's Counterpart," and he spoke from the text "As the body is one and hath many members, so also is Christ." "Christ and His church," said the speaker, "are used as meaning the same thing, by Paul, frequently. We are members of Him to exemplify Him to the world. If people do not see Christ in us, they will never see Him. The church must better represent His character if it is to succeed. To win the world we members of the church must lead the Christ life for the world to see. Where Christ is impressed upon a vast audience. The best kind of preaching is a good example. We manifest the spirit of Christ when we show love and compassion to those in need. Jesus said, 'As the Father sent me into the world, so send I you.'"

The evening sermon was the fourth of the series on the general topic, "The Place and Plea of the Disciples of Christ," and the distinctive theme was "The Plea." The speaker said in part, "The Christian church or Disciples of Christ, now numbering nearly a million and a half members, is fourth in size of the Protestant religious bodies of America and the only one born on this continent. It was put forth for only two specific purposes and these are the pleas or pleading of this great movement, viz: to win souls to Christ and to unify the churches of Christ, of all denominations, into one aggressive body, with no creed but an outspoken belief in the divinity and saving power of Jesus Christ, and using the Bible as the only rule of faith and practice. Its members have only love for those in the denominations and its pastors should preach only Christ and Him crucified and a united church. 'One Lord, one faith and one baptism, one God and Father of us all.' It is only on a Bible name and a Bible creed that Christendom can unite, for these are not man made, hence never need revision. Speed the day when all of God's people shall be in one fold thus answering Christ's earnest prayer."

SURGEONS TO TRY DE BOLT EYESIGHT

BAKERSFIELD, Nov. 14.—Surgeons were working today to save M. T. De Bolt from total blindness following a hunting accident here. De Bolt was formerly a mechanic for Tommy Milton. De Bolt has already lost the sight of one eye. It is feared that the other cannot be saved. Accidental discharge of a shotgun, the magazine of which was held close against De Bolt's face, was responsible for the accident.

ATHLETIC EVENTS AT CELEBRATION

Hackenschmidt Wins Bout From Metzetti in Short Time

John (Young) Hackenschmidt won his wrestling match with "Butch" Metzetti at the Sheesley Shows on Friday night in 19 minutes. The men were wrestling for two falls out of three with no time limit. The first fall came in 12 minutes, when Hackenschmidt threw Metzetti with an armlock. The second fall came in 7 minutes.

When Metzetti challenged Hackenschmidt to the match he claimed that when he wrestled with Hackenschmidt at Clunes theater in Los Angeles he lost because he was not in proper condition. Previous to the match on Friday night, Metzetti stated through his manager that he felt, in perfect condition, and the result of the match speaks for Hackenschmidt's condition. Metzetti outweighed Hackenschmidt.

All of the boxing bouts held the same night at the Sheesley Shows were won by men from Glendale. Battling Essex of Glendale took on Paul Burke of Burbank and sent him to the cleaners in four rounds, and fans say it was one of the classic bouts of the evening. Essex has fought but twice; the first time with Burke, who defeated him. This time he wiped the slate of his defeat and trimmed Burke to the queen's taste.

Ralph Meyers, a member of the Glendale fire department, gave Howard Kendig of Burbank a boxing lesson. He had held Kendig to a draw in a previous bout and on Friday night he won the decision with four rounds of clean, fast fighting.

Johnny Meyers, also a member of the Glendale fire department and a veteran of many a ring battle in all sections of the state, taught Jack Moore of Los Angeles several new things about boxing. Moore came to Glendale with a lot of confidence on the night of the bout and returned with a good licking chalked up against him. The boys were evenly matched and offered one of the prettiest bouts ever seen in Glendale.

THE GUARDIAN ANGEL

I've got a garden angel,
My Mamma told me so,
It watches me by day and night,
Quite everywhere I go.
I never hear it speaking,
Its face I never see,
But all day long and through the dark,
It watches over me.

I've got a garden angel,
And when the shadows creep,
It watches me, and through the night
It never goes to sleep.
It follows like my shadow
Wherever I may go,
And when I play, or night of day,
My Mamma told me so.

I've got a garden angel
That whispers in my ear,
And tells me what is right to do,
But I don't always hear.
Its face is like a sunbeam,
Its heart is full of song,
My Mamma said, and where I go
It always goes along.

I've looked all through the garden,
For it just seems to me
That's where a garden angel
We should expect to see.
Behind the shrubs and bushes,
In tree tops green and tall,
I've looked all through the garden
But not found her at all.

I've got a garden angel,
My Mamma told me so,
It watches me by day or night,
Quite everywhere I go.
Won't you come through the garden
And look both in and out
To find the garden angel
My Mamma told about?

Purely Personal

A party composed of Mr. and Mrs. Roland Bagg, Miss Ruth Ryan and Donovan Yates motored to Camp Oak Wilde in the Arroyo Seco Canyon, Saturday night. The evening was spent in dancing after which they set up camp. Sunday was spent in hiking and taking pictures.

Evelyn Traver of 537 East Colorado street is confined to her home with an attack of scarlet fever.

Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Pearson have taken possession of an apartment in the bungalow court on Maryland and Wilson avenues, where they will be located for several months. They had expected to be called to the Imperial Valley by the fruit brokerage company with which Mr. Pearson is connected, but will not leave for the present.

Mrs. S. E. Elam of Bisbee has arrived in Glendale to join her son, D. E. Elam and make her future home.

Mrs. Ella Richardson of North Brand boulevard is leaving for the North the early part of next week to return to her parents at King City, her grandson, Billy Mitchell, who has been her guest for a month.

PEOPLE HOME TO DEMAND ACTION

any government stood in the way of this long step toward disarmament. The conference will find that disarmament will be greatly aided by an international tribunal for the settlement of disputes. Heretofore, war has been the only means provided for the arbitration of international questions.

Fortunately, the conference will have at hand and immediately available a plan thoroughly understood and universally approved, namely: the plan which provides for the investigation of all disputes before resorting to war. Arbitration treaties cannot cover the subjects out of which war is most likely to grow. All of our arbitration treaties contain three exceptions, viz: independence, vital interests and the interests of third parties. "Vital interests" alone comprehends every real issue of war, so that arbitration was only compulsory in few and relatively unimportant matters. The treaties for investigation closed the gap and left the cause out of which war could come without a period of investigation.

These 30 treaties make war impossible between the United States and the governments with which the treaties were negotiated—governments which represented about three-quarters of the population of the globe. The plan of these treaties was incorporated in the covenant of the league of nations and has therefore been approved by all the nations represented in this conference. The United States senate made no objections to this portion of the covenant, as the proposed reservations will show.

It would seem easy therefore, to extend, as far as possible, the jurisdiction of court of arbitration and thereby establish an international tribunal with powers to investigate all disputes which are not submitted to arbitration. With such tribunal provided for, the probability of war would be so lessened that the nations will be willing to go farther in the direction of disarmament than they would without provision being made for some such tribunal. It may be added that disarmament greatly increases the value of these tribunals for investigation, the less provision there is made for armies and navies, the less likelihood of the violation of any treaty.
